b) Breaches (of privacy) reported in this form are those that have a significant impact on the customer and require disclosure under applicable privacy legislation

- A complaint is the expression of at least one of the following elements that persists after being considered and examined at the operational level capable of making a decision on the matter:
 - · a reproach against an organization;
 - the identification of a real or potential harm that a consumer has experienced or may experience;
 - · a request for a remedial action

Complaints are generally expressed in writing through correspondence, email, fax or other form that allows a complaint to be kept on file. Where a consumer makes a complaint by phone or in person and the complaint is handled and examined by the person responsible for the examination of complaints and designated as such in the organization's policy, the complaint must be documented so that it can be kept on file.

The initial expression of dissatisfaction by a consumer, whether in writing or otherwise, will not be considered a complaint where the issue is settled in the ordinary course of business. However, in the event the consumer remains dissatisfied and such dissatisfaction is referred to the person who is responsible for the examination of complaints and designated as such in the organization's policy, then it will be considered as a complaint.

However, organizations must refrain from any undue delay in referring a matter to a higher level solely for the purpose of avoiding reporting requirements.

Where a consumer remains dissatisfied after a reasonable attempt has been made to settle the issue, organizations without a multilevel complaint examination structure are then considered to have received a complaint.

Definitions (suite

d) Consumer means all current and prospective customers of insurance products.

e) Employee means any salaried employee of an insurer working more than 25 hours per week, but does not include an employee paid primarily by commission

FTC is a principle that focuses on consumer outcomes, in particular, having due regard for the interests of the consumer and treating the consumer fairly. It refers to the consumer-related conduct of insurers and how insurers treat consumers at each stage of the life cycle of a product. The lifecycle of the product begins with its design to after-sales services and from the moment obligations under the contract arise until the point at which all obligations under the contract have been fulfilled.

The outcomes associated with FTC as described by the International Association of Insurance Supervisors (IAIS) include the following:

- developing and marketing products in a way that pays due regard to the interests of customers;
- · providing customers with clear information before, during and after the point of sale;
- · reducing the risk of sales which are not appropriate to customers' needs;
- ensuring that any advice given is of a high quality;
- dealing with customer complaints and disputes in a fair manner;
- protecting the privacy of information obtained from customers; and
- managing the reasonable expectations of customers.

Areas within an insurer and its operations that can influence and help ensure the FTC include:

- · Board and senior management responsibility;
- Strategy and decision making:
- · Internal processes and mechanisms (controls);
- · Performance management; · Remuneration; and
- · Policies and procedures.

The CCIR notes that while these outcomes are intended to be a key component of a globally accepted regulatory framework, the IAIS notes that context and conditions within a given jurisdiction, including legal, regulatory and financial considerations, will ultimately affect the implementation and application of FTC and its associated outcomes.

- Lapse refers to the termination of a policy for nonpayment of the premium. This occurs when the policy owner does not pay the premiums on time or the value of the policy (cash value) is insufficient for the payment

- Product means all insurance protections marketed under the same name and sold as a whole, although some options are possible. For purposes of this disclosure, an endorsement is not considered an insurance product if it cannot be sold alone.
- Regulatory action means any action that results in an order, penalty, fine, or other sanction.
- m) Sales management means either an employee of an insurer, a managing general agent, or a third-party administrator, responsible for oversight of the sales force.
- Sales force means those who offer the product to the consumer (for example agents, exempt sellers, restricted licensees and those who offer the product through Quebec's "without a representative" regime).
